

Can't Quite Believe

(Richard Lamplough)

*Can't quite believe each time a storm comes,
I move wherever the weather is worse.
In the search for a chorus
before I've completed the first verse.*

*Can't quite believe I really loved you,
We moved from 'forever' to 'ever so brief.'
But now it's all over,
I can't quite believe my disbelief.*

*When I was a child I had tunes in my head.
But what sad news, found guitars hard to use,
so I played my piano instead.*

*So I'll stay out of bounds and forget how we spoke,
I'll just love the breeze, crisp autumn leaves,
And bonfires that smoulder and smoke.*

*Can't quite believe how much I need you,
But how much do you need a fool or a thief?
I just still have to see you,
And I can't quite believe my disbelief.*
