

Then You're There

(Richard Lamplough)

*I just dreamed of a melody somehow,
And it's seven years now that you've gone.
Perhaps I can lace them together with sunshine,
Then spin them both into a song.*

*When the tune's kind of clear but the words won't appear,
Then you're there.*

*When I feel in control and at peace in my soul,
Then you're there.*

*And if my dreams start to fade and I'm lost in the shade,
Then you're there.*

*Through the highs and lows if I let my eyes close,
Then you're there.*

*I'm still falling in love like I'm falling in water,
A deep vivid ocean that's tempting me in.*

*These past twenty years,
I've learned how to dive well.*

*Such a shame that,
I've never quite learned how to swim.*

*And it's high time to see dear,
That I shouldn't be here.*

*When I start things,
That then make my heart sing.*

*I spend time alone now,
Pretend I'm not home now.now.*

And it's true, I'm not here...

I'm with you.

I so love you.
